2. Ikea's change of focus

Ikea was founded in Sweden in 1943, and now operates in over 400 stores in over 45 countries. Ikea first opened its doors in the UK in 1987, and today has over 20 UK stores.

Ikea is a well-known brand that specialises in low price, high quality furniture and accessories. Recently, Ikea launched a new smaller store on the British high street. The first mini-Ikea opened in central London in late 2018 selling a "new capsule collection" of furniture and accessories such as beds, lighting, and office and gardening products. Up until this point Ikea were known for very large stores that sold the full range of Ikea's portfolio.

Ikea's retail manager Javier Quinones said: "The opening of this new small city centre shop marks an exciting development for the Ikea business, as we continue to focus on innovation and transform to better meet the needs of our customers". Mr Quinones said: "We know that by 2050, 70% of people will be living in cities. Our city centre approach is just the beginning of a new period of change for Ikea as a business".

Mr Quinones also unveiled plans for a 24-hour delivery service to cope with online demand and competition from internet sites such as Amazon. "If we do not adapt then in the long run we will not exist. By launching this new approach and investing more in multi-channel distribution, we are working to ensure Ikea remains affordable, convenient and sustainable, both now and in the future." More mini-Ikea stores are planned in the UK, growing the business further.
